and succeed in the competitive job market,” said KPJUC vice-president Prof Dr Fauziah Sh Ahmad in the statement.

She added that the new academic programmes equipped students with specialised skills, career connections and life-long learning skills.

KPJUC takes pride in dedication of its teaching staff to ensure that students have access to a first-class learning environment and paired the academics with adjunct experts from the industries and businesses. Those enrolled in these programmes would be able to apply for financial assistance and allowances. Registration fee will be waived for those eligible.

KPJUC students may gain field work experience by participating in job placements at any KPJ Hospital network throughout Peninsular Malaysia, Sabah and Sarawak.

On top of that, students may benefit from a full-time internship at their chosen organisations including Johor Corporation (JCorp) group of companies.

With the addition of these new programmes, KPJUC now offers 28 programmes for those interested in healthcare industry. With its strong network of 26 KPJ Specialist hospitals, over 1,000 specialist doctors as mentors and advisors, students can look forward to secured employment upon graduation.
